They invite to the Online Seminar:

„Online awareness rising seminar for Citizens on reduction of household waste”

We are pleased to invite you to an international Online Awareness-Raising Seminar for Citizens on the Reduction of Household Waste, organized by Pan-European University on Friday 18th October 2024 at 10:00 a.m. CET. This seminar is designed to help citizens and local leaders learn effective methods to reduce household waste and apply a comprehensive approach to assess the potential for reducing greenhouse gas emissions.

The seminar will be held online, with sessions organized nationally in participants' native languages. Each country will have its own dedicated online room, ensuring tailored discussions and activities. This structure will foster the development of local "Ambassadors of Waste Reduction" who will be instrumental in promoting sustainable waste practices in their communities.

We look forward to your participation in this important seminar, which aims to empower communities across Europe to take meaningful action towards reducing household waste and mitigating climate change.

We are convinced that the topics of the debate and the project will meet with your interest, and that your participation in this undertaking will be useful to you.
